REPORT OF THE FOREIGN AND HOME CORRESPONDING SECRETARY.

OF MISSIONARY COUSINS.

A precious band of friends, spent a brief week with the Cousins at Honolulu, in the early part of July, 1890. These were missionaries en route from the United States to Micronesia. Mr. Walkup, Miss Fletcher, Mr. and Mrs. Rand were returning to fields in which they are becoming veterans. Mr. and Mrs. Channon, in the ardor of young recruits, were to regather and labor for the Gilbert Islands Training School. The fair-faced darlings, Paul and Ruth, had not held back their parents from this undertaking, but babes as they were, by their sweetness and bravery as little voyagers, they were smoothing the way to distant shores. With Mrs. Rand was her sister, Miss Foss, glad to have a share in Foreign Mission Work. Miss Kinney, well equipped by experience among the freedmen, was going to Mrs. Logan, to whom she had long been bound in personal friendship. To this company was added Miss Jessie Hoppin, one of Kawaiahao Seminary's valued teachers, whose heart had responded to the call for help from the girl's school at Kusaie. Still another joined the band—Moses Kaure, for four years a faithful assistant of Rev. H. Bingham in his task of Bible translation. On the Sabbath previous to their departure, Mr. Kaure had been ordained in the old Stone Church as an evangelist, and, heart all aglow with Christion love, he would hasten back to his native land to teach his countrymen.

The day of sailing was July 12th. Very touching were the words of parting between those going and those remaining, and earnest prayer was offered for God's protection over the outward bound vessel and her dear company. Just as the Star was moving from the dock, someone was seen to come from the cabin, and with quick step to advance to the vessel's side and hand a letter to one upon the wharf. It was Mr. Rand, sending thus a father's latest greeting to the young daughter, their only child, left in the far-away homeland—Some eyes filled with tears, at thought of this sacrifice, and of many another on these same shores, when our fathers and mothers, for Christ's sake, sent their children out of heathendom to be educated in America.

Through the year we have had comparatively frequent news from Mioronesia. We rejoiced to learn that the Star reached her various ports in safety; but with surprise and sorrow we heard of continued troubles on Ponape. Oppression and outrage by the Spaniards and resistance by the natives had dyed that beautiful island with the blood of some scores of her sons, and of several hundreds of the invaders. The disbanding, by order of Spanish Governor, of the Girl's School so bravely kept up to the very last by Miss Palmer; the burning of mission property, their church and homes and two thousand dollars worth of books, and the necessity for all the missionaries to leave were sad indeed. By a kind Providence they were safely removed on the U. S. S. Alliance to Kusaie. Providence having also opened a way for Miss Kinney to reach Ruk, where she found Mrs. Logan and the Snellings well. Later we heard of disaster to the Morning Star, an exploded boiler, by which her snail-paced movements were made all the slower through calm and current. Mr. Walkup had been greatly disappointed in his touring about the Gilbert Islands, for out of thirteen weeks he had twenty-four days on shore, owing to the miserable speed of the Star, which in the forceful words of The Friend, "was never half a sailer, and never had but a few sheep-power of steam." In October, the dainty craft, R. W. Logan, furled her sails in our sun-lit waters. She was on her way to the Caroline Islands. Every one was charmed with this well-built and convenient boat, and followed her with best wishes when she sped on, under command of Capt. Worth to the aid of Mrs. Logan and her associates.

We have little of the work of our cousins in Japan, but we read with pride, Prof. Geo. J. Romane's estimate of Rev. John Gulick, in which he expresses his conviction that he is "the most profound of living thinkers upon Darwinian topics:" We sympathize with Mrs. Theo. Gulick in her long suffering consequent upon a hurt while riding in a jinriksha.

Miss Van Duzee writes of persistent out-door exercise, by which she retains good health, and is able to keep well in hand her many duties as teacher, visitor, bible reader, etc. She wonders who sends to Persia The Paradise of the Pacific. Two copies have found their way to Salmas with no other writing on the wrapper than "H. M. King of Persia."

From cousin Wm. Gulick comes a deeply interesting account of the dedication of a chapel in Bilbao, Spain. Four years the evangelical church in that city was without a place of worship. The constant search of the pastor to find a room had been fruitless. During a brief period of two months he had called on twenty-seven landlords who had suitable rooms to let, but would not let them, because of priest-ruled wives, of whom one husband said, "If we should let any room to you they would make us so miserable by their complaints and their outcries, that our lives would not be worth living." A lot was offered for sale to Mr. Gulick, and the father of one of Mrs. Gulick's pupils offered a loan of money sufficient to secure the land and erect a building. With wise foresight Mr. Gulick accepted the loan. On the 22nd of last March "the chapel was dedicated by public services of greater significance than any previously held in connection with the Spanish Protestant work in Bilbao."

Of our cousins in Aintab we only know that they have passed through great trials in the loss, by fire, of their school building. We hope for fuller news another year.

Counsins in the U.S.

In short notes to the Treasurer, accompanied by contributions, we have assurances of aloha and prayers for God's blessing from W. L. Bond and Miss Elizateth Chapin. Our good friend, Col. C. S. Stewart, sends another liberal donation.

Rev. H. J. Taylor's "hands are full, building two houses of worship on Fidalgo Island." Otherwise he would gladly pledge aid for present needs.

General Armstrong was among the notables at the three days' annual conference at Lake Mohonk on the Indian. Mr. Smiley's hotel in that place, he pronounces the finest resort in America—"More and more the best people of all classes go there; yet no dancing, wine, card playing or theatricals are allowed." On board the steamer, returning to Hampton, our cousin dashes off twenty pages—"all with a stub pencil onehalf inch long, an hour's chat with you cousins—no effort—a pleasant diversion." O "loyal heart and true!"

Such happy memories of his island home, and wise counsels for us who are here—such continued interest in all our concerns, and so prompt to make his bride a life member. "Mr. Bailey's pictures of Haleakala, and of the Wailuku mountains which hang in my sitting room," writes Gen. Armstrong, "are a perpetual reminder of a grandeur that I have never seen equalled, that I hope sometime to see once more. Ten years ago I saw it last, I promised to return in five years, and ten have gone by, and the idea seems far from fulfilment. One gains nothing by being anxious. The

"The Hawaiian Club of Yale University," through its Secretary, Arthur Alexander, sends us delightful greetings. He writes of the unity and good will which characterize the club, and tells us of their meetings at which light refreshments are served, and Honolulu papers are strewn around the room; at which the latest engagement, the latest marriage, the latest political move or latest business venture are discussed. "There seems," he says, "to be some peculiar tie that draws together people from Hawaii, wherever they may be. If any of the "Uncles' and Aunts'" of the Cousins Society should happen in their travels to be in the neighborhood of New Haven, we would be only too glad of a visit, and I think they would find that we had not forgotten our early lessons in hospitality, even after long absence from our mother-land.'

In a personal letter from Mrs. E. P. Church, held in cherished remembrance by so many of our band, we have this encouragement: "We always read the Cousin's Report aloud together, and all your labor in preparing and sending it is appreciated." The three young folks of the family are away from their home; Charlie in Cleveland engaged in business, Albert and

Louis both at Oberlin. "Of Albert," she says, "he rather inclines to medicine as a profession, and if he decides upon that, I think he will be ready for a call as medical missionary, if it should come." The Churches' find the environments of their new home, Cadillac, Mich., comfortable and congenial, and are, as ever, full of work. "I do not think," writes Mrs. C., "our friends at the Islands realize how we cherish the memory of you all. We receive the Gazette regularly, and usually read it very thoroughly, even the passenger lists."

One item in a little sketch which Mrs. Julia (Richards) Brewer gives us of a Missionary Society with which she is connected, is of interest, viz., that Mrs. Hattie S. Crawford, of Mexico, is supported by them. Her letter contains valuable thoughts on the subject of benevolence. She fears the spirit with which some Christians make their offerings of tithes makes it seem to the poor that our Lord is a hard master. Of her sweet daughter's return to them, after two years teaching at Kawaiahao, she says, "it seems so good to see her pleasant face and hear her cheerful voice again." And having received a jar of poha jam, she adds, "that speaks to my heart, how many memories of my childhood's home it brings. It seems as if you had sent me a piece of that land." Grace writes, "I make her (the invalid mother) my first care and undertake as little as possible of outside work. I have undertaken one thing though. Twenty boys and girls gather in our parlor once a month for an hour, as a Missionary Society. All are under twelve years of age, and have pledged this year thirty dollars. I told them about my own little girls at Kawaiahao trying to raise fifteen dollars to support little Jael in Ponape."

Our adopted cousin, Miss Small, of York, Pa., for many years a contributor to our treasury, has this year had the joy of reaping much fruit from abundant labors among the poor of her native city. Fifty have joined the church, lately established, largely through Miss Small's efforts.

Miss H. Hillebrand, our former Home Secretary, greets us from Oswego, N. Y. The students of the Normal School had given an exercise on the Sandwich Islands, for which the Hillebrands had loaned them photographs, fans, mats, leis, etc. We rejoice in all that helps the outside world to become acquainted with Hawaii nei.

Dr. Henry M. Lyman, in sending his subscription to The Friend, says of it, "It contains about all of interest regarding the Islands that a busy man can find time to read." As this paper publishes at some length the letters and journals of our Micronesian and Marquesan missionaries not infrequently gives a valuable article from the "Maile Wreath," and informs us of evangelical work among Hawaii's various races, in which work we have so large a share, it might be a welcome visitor in every cousin's home, here and abroad. We wish all might read, in its October number, the beautiful poem on Persia, written by Mrs. Dillingham.

Of Hugo Frear, we learn with pride that he was the draughtsman of the gunboat Charleston. He has also presented to the department in Washington what is considered the finest model of battle ship ever presented there. May these boats never need to fire a hostile gun. Walter Dole was one of the winning crew of Cornell in the race in which the rowers made three miles in fourteen minutes and forty-two seconds, the fastest time on record.

Luther H. Gulick, Jr., is the developer and director of a new system of physical education pursued at the Y. M. C. A. in Springfield. "Under no other system," says the Springfield Republican, "has the work of physical training and the education of trainers been so scientifically developed."

ISLAND COUSINS.

Prof. A. B. Lyons spent part of last summer vacation in explorations of Laysan Island, very appropriately called "Bird Land," denizened as it is by, perhaps, a million birds. Charming extracts from his journal the Professor read to us at one of our meetings, and we learned much about gonies, frigate and tropic birds, terns, etc., whose habits the naturalist may easily study since the feathered tribes "have not yet learned to fear man excessively." Soon after the return of the explorers, a party was established at Laysan to gather guano for commerce. Hon. G. N. Wilcox, it is said, has a leading interest in the undertaking. Since the passage of the McKinley bill, so cruel to stockholders in sugar plantations, the attention of business men is being turned to other industries. An energetic enterprise, headed by L. A. Thurston, is in progress for securing more visitors to our great volcano and for ensuring to them far more comfort in their travels to, and sojourn at Kilauea, than tourists have hitherto experienced.

Prof. Brigham, qualified by long acquaintance with the volcano to note its changes, has been the reporter to the American Journal of Science of the late collapse of Dana Lake. The Polynesian curiosities, which have been collected in great variety and abundance for the Bishop Museum, are in the hands of Prof. Brigham for arrangement in that rare building on the Kamehameha School grounds. Architecture in Honolulu is keeping pace with its many other improvements. blocks of gray lava, massive and regular," transported from the Palama quaries, are rising into form and comeliness for the new edifice of the Central Union Church, the corner stone of which has recently been laid. Father Castle, the oldest male of the church, and Sophie Judd, its youngest female member, were the honored actors in laying the stone. The religious exercises on the occasion were of deepest interest.

Twelve of the cousins participated in these: Drs. Beckwith and Hyde, and Messrs. Atherton, Bingham, Bishop, Emerson, Gulick, Jones, Judd, Oleson, Parker and Waterhouse. The photographer who, so successfully caught the shadow of their earnest faces, is to be congratulated.

[The Corresponding Secretary would be glad to help any absent cousin to obtain this picture. Twenty-six cents in U. S. postage stamps might be sent to meet the expense.]

Another Protestant Church, towards which individual cousins have contributed, has been erected this year. This is for the Portuguese, among whom a blessed evangelical mission has been established. In Hilo, also, this nationality and the Japanese are being cared for with Christian zeal by our kindred there.

In the Paia Church, on Maui, have been placed beautiful windows, memorials of their honored parents by the Baldwins and Alexanders, also one for Father Green by his friends. The pastor's health was benefitted by a visit to the Yosemite, and on his return, as Oahu College was to be for a while without a president, Mr. Gulick very acceptably filled the vacancy until the coming of President Hosmer. Rev. W. D. Westervelt meantime supplied the Paia pulpit. We suffer a great loss in the withdrawal from our working force of that devoted laborer, Mr. Westervelt. The failing health of Mrs. W. made necessary their return to the States.

Miss Carpenter, so long identified with Makawao Female Seminary, felt obliged on account of limited strength to resign. Her true, missionary spirit cultivated benevolence in her pupils and their monthly concert contributions during eighteen years, were well on to a thousand dollars. Ten of our life members were made such by donations of the girls.

On Kauai, the Industrial School established by the efforts of Dr. J. Smith and his sister has begun good work under the able principalship of Robert W. Andrews, assisted by his wife. Hampton Institute sent her trusted Vice-Principal, Miss Kenwill, to be one of its corps of teachers.

7,000 acres of Kauai's rich cane land are to be irrigated through the enterprise of the Hawaiian Sugar Co. Hon. H. P. Baldwin's trained eye saw the most desirable course for the waters of the Hanapepe river to reach the plantation by the sea, and having mapped it out, he committed to Mr. E. M. Walsh the task of superintending the digging of 16,000 ft. of ditching, of constructing 12,000 ft. of fluming, of tunneling 1,000 ft. of rock, and of placing 5,570 ft. of 40-inch steel piping up and down precipitous cliffs. Nature offered a reservoir for surplus water, an extinct crater, probably in which she will hold 43,000,000 gallons.

We have been represented upon the high seas this year, by about one hundred and twenty-five of our members traveling on business, or for pleasure or for health. One of the last class is our beloved cousin, Frank Damon. Overtaxed by many cares and too great labor, he broke down early in the year, and for months has been in the home land to recruit. We earnestly pray he may soon be restored to his chosen work among the Chinese, and to the friends who miss him sadly.

Reports of schools, aided by our funds, will be given by their Principals, but we cannot close without expressing our sorrow that among the dear corps at Kawaiahao Seminary we are no more to see the faces of Misses Hopper, Hoppin, Davis and Pepoon, most faithful workers, whom we can ill afford to spare.

In last year's catalogue of Oahu College we find this just tribute to its late President: "It is gratifying to be able to note the substantial progress that has marked the history of the College during the Septennial period of Mr. Merritt's Presidency, and which has in a considerable measure been due to his management." Gifts received by the Institution during his incumbency amounted to $116,000. Under its present head we feel assured the prosperity of the College will not decline.

DEATHS.

While we gathered up last year, the record of those who had gone from our circle to the other life, and questioned as we could not help questioning, what name would open the list for the next year, we little knew that Mrs. Damon, one of our mothers in Israel, was even then sleeping the last sleep. On the 19th of June, 1890, as she was on her way to the East, needing change for health's sake, the Lord sent a heavenly convoy to bear her safe to himself. There were beautiful tributes to her worth at the funeral, and at the Memorial services of the Woman's Board, both held in Central Union Church, and attended by large numbers. From 1842 she had lived in Honolulu, a wise counsellor and an active participant in good works.

Not even one year was Frida Castle with us, but in her short sojourn many learned to love her, and over the whole community fell the shock, and sorrow of her sudden death. On the afternoon of July 7th, she was starting out for a drive, when she was thrown from her carriage, and the gentle spirit, after an hour of unconsciousness, left the lovely tenement in which it had tabernacled only some twenty summers, to dwell among the angels.

On Jan. 17th, 1891, dear mother Johnson entered into rest. Most patiently had this pilgrim of eighty-two years borne the trials and sorrows of the way. Her sweet serenity and her calm confidence in the Father's love and wisdom, had been full of blessing to others. Rising in the morning to meet the duties of a new day, she met him who unbars the gates of everlasting day, and in the evening she had passed within the city of the King.

Rarely has a life been so full of changes and so marked by ceaseless activities as that of Dr. L. H. Gulick, chief organizer of the Hawaiian Mission Children's Society. His feet had traversed many a strand, his eloquent voice been heard on many a shore. In Micronesia, Hawaii and Japan, in America, Europe and Asia he had told the message of the Master, and now the Lord has crowned the faithful servant and made him welcome to His joy. He entered the heavenly home on April 8th, 1891.

In North Weymonth, Mass., April 25th, 1891. Mrs. Lucy (White) Palmer, aged 30. One who conducted the funeral services, Rev. R. B. Howard, writes of her. "She was a most lovely wife and mother. Her life was intense as it was brief, full of love, courage and usefulness."

In Honolulu, May 5th, 1891, Mrs. Clara (Shipman) Thurston, aged 31, another whose loveliness in wifehood and motherhood was valued by those who knew her. When told that the journey's end was near she expressed herself as ready and went quietly on to cross the river. Sweet change from death to life.

In Honolulu, May 8, 1891, Rev. Lowell Smith D.D. aged 88. Hardly can we realize that this venerable father, ever most active and genial, dwells on earth no longer. For more than fifty years he moved about these streets, even to the last bent on deeds of kindness, with cordial greeting for all, with helpful hand for those in trouble. Now he moves among the hosts of ransomed ones, and joins with thousands of Hawaiians to whom he brought the light, in Alleluias to their God. He walked with God and was not, for God took him.

In Hilo, June 6, 1891, Rexford H. Hitchcock, aged 55. Severest suffering had been his portion for many months, but the Refiner was sitting near, and daily saw His image more perfectly reflected in the spirit purified by pain, "Till to the Soul's glad eyes.

"Filled with divine surprise,"

Heaven ope'd wide her golden morning gates."

From fond parents' arms four tender birdlings have flown, during the year, safe to the arms of Jesus. Helen (Whitney) Kelly's four months old little Hervey; Lucy (Wetmore) Lewis's dear Raymond Whiting, aged nineteen months; George Rowell's three years old Robert Love, and Cora (Hitchcock) Townsend's wee girlie of only seven days.

Not in our list of members is the name of Mary (Locke) Wilson, but she was a daughter of Edwin and Martha L. Locke of the reinforcement of 1837, and so one of the cousinhood. At Roseville, Cal., Mrs. Wilson and her husband died of La Grippe on the nineteenth of Feb. 1891.

HILO BOYS BOARDING SCHOOL.

HILO, May 30, 1891.

We want to thank the "Cousins" Society for its aid to the school. It has been a great help.

We have used it for the tuition of boys unable to earn their own way or too poor to be helped by their parents. Perhaps you know that the American Board this year withdrew its support to us so that we are the more grateful for your help, as some pupils must have been kept out of school but for you. We think our boys are making progress in many ways. The general disposition among them is quiet and respectful, many are trying to show their appreciation of what is done for them, and one has joined the Haili Church this year. We have had fifty scholars in all. Miss Ellen Lyman is our assistant in the class-room.

The Lord has been very good to us and blessed us abundantly. At the opening of the year, the prospects were not bright but money has been given us to meet the unusual expenses of this year, for there has been a taro famine all through this district so that poi has been very expensive. Besides we have added something over $20,000 to the endowment or "Lyman" Fund. Hon. C. R. Bishop offered $10,000 if an equal amount could be raised; later he increased this by $2000. Within seven months we had secured the full amount. We have lately received $500 from one of your members for a Reading Room and Library, and the Government has paid $1000 for improvements on buildings and grounds, as a result of this the main building (37 years old) has a new north end, one new floor, verandahs, paint, etc. Five acres of taro have been planted, also sugar-cane, potatoes, bananas and coffee. With these, and a prospect of a large attendance next year, we close this year's work.

Thanking you for your renewed gift, and wishing you might all be present at our closing exercises.

Yours very sincerely,

C. REAMER TERRY.

REPORT OF EAST MAUL SEMINARY.

There have been 110 girls in East Maui Seminary during the year. Though the number is larger than ever before, the average number for the year is probably less than for the previous year.

Our work has been interrupted somewhat by sickness, but the year bids fair to close with good health among teachers and pupils.

We began the year with six regular teachers and two assistants from among the girls, but found it impracticable to employ so many. We have returned to the number of regular teachers formerly employed, five, and shall do with that number for the present. We find that the older girls are quite efficient in many lines of work with proper supervision.

There has been, among the girls, a spirit of obedience and loyalty to teachers, that has been a great support to us. Many of them have expressed a desire to become Christians. Only two have united with the Church.

Fourteen of our number are ministers' daughters. Three of the nine supported by the H. M. C. S. left at the close of last year and one died early in the present year. We have filled their places with new names.

We find that we have received too freely girls for whose support no provision has been made. At present, there are twenty for whom no one pays. This has straightened us somewhat, financially, but we hope soon to find friends who shall make up the deficiency.

We have not found it easy to improve upon the Sabbath and other religious exercises; as we continue them as they have been in former years.

MARTHA McLENNAN, Principal.

MAUNA OLIVA SEMINARY, KOHALA.

This school re-opened October 21, 1889, with eleven pupils, and closed June, 1890, with twenty-two. During the summer vacation enlargements and improvements were made to the school buildings, so that now everything is very convenient, and there is room for 50 girls which has been our number for this year. We have prospered in every way beyond our expectation. Our number is limited to 50; therefore we make the school a family as much as possible, giving the girls a good idea of home life and training which they so much need. Your generous appropriation of $300 added to our number five ministers' daughters and a niece of a minister. Two are small girls 6 and 9 years old, the others are 13, 15, 16, 17, good Christian girls and very healthful in every department of school work. Many thanks to the H. M. C. S.

Last year six of the girls united with the church, and this year five; others are anxious.

The girls are all well-behaved, industrious and happy. Special attention is given to all departments of housework.

The girls have been remarkably well and healthy until May 25, since then 30 pupils and three teachers have had "la grippe"; therefore our exhibition and sale of articles from the sewing classes and culinary department had to be postponed until the September term.

The Lord's blessing has attended our work here which at first was very discouraging, and we are very hopeful for the future of the school. May the Lord still bless us and the Cousins' Society.

MINERVA F. WHITTIER, Principal.

REPORT OF KAWAIAHAO SEMINARY FOR THE YEAR 1890-1891.

When the school re-opened in September we were glad to greet once more nearly all of the pupils of the previous year.

We have had 126 pupils enrolled and the general behavior has been good—very few cases of discipline. I do not think in a school of this size any where it would be possible to have less friction than has been here.

The health of the school has been most excellent. One girl was ill with pleurisy and pneumonia, long enough for us to realize what a great blessing is our cottage for the sick, but with Dr. McWayne in close attendance, together with the girl's own brave efforts; we soon had her about. One died at her home of quick consumption, but from all slight illness or complaints we feel that we have been unusually exempt.

Soon after school opened, Miss Hopper, the head of the sewing department, was suddenly called home. Since then Miss Alice Lewis, who had been under her training for some years, has been doing very satisfactory work. In January Miss Grace Brewer, the Primary teacher, left us, and Miss Emma Kane—one of our girls—was given her position and has been so faithful in school-room and dormitory—doing such good work—that it has been considered wise to give her the position next year. Both of these christian girls are careful and industrious, spending their money judiciously and conscientiously. They can do a work among their own people that no foreigner can do, and our earnest hope for them is that they will do it so well that their services shall be of equal value with that of other teachers in the school.

The girls' contributions to Church and Sunday School have averaged nearly eleven dollars a month besides their gifts to Lima Kokua.

Several girls have attended regularly one afternoon each week a Normal Class conducted by Prof. Scott, who speaks very encouragingly of their work. Besides this normal training four of the girls have been gaining practical knowledge by teaching a class one half hour each day. Mother Rice has been especially interested in this new departure and through her generosity they have received some compensation for their work. During the year twelve girls have been earning money, some going out to sew, others doing extra work here in their recreation time.

Some of the Kamehameha boys have visited with our pupils nearly every week and we are sure that the intercourse this gives them has been of benefit to them.

The greatest improvement to premises this year has been the putting in perfect condition of the old and the adding of the new drain pipes, the enlarging and the general repairing of wash-house and the building of ten new bath-rooms.

Forty girls can now wash at one time, each one having her own tap, tub and board. Washing and ironing for between ninety and one hundred is done here each week, interfering with no other work, being done mornings before time for school.

Mother Rice has given a new cottage, soon to be erected for a dress making department in advance of the sewing already taught. A competent dressmaker is now engaged and we expect every thing in readiness by September 1st.

We have now, we think, a very neat little library fund. Gifts at Christmas time to the amount of $60 were the beginning of it. Later the proceeds of the concert, $385 were added. We have already purchased a very satisfactory encyclopedia. Dr. Beckwith kindly gave us Schaff's Encyclopedia of Religious Knowledge and Mr. Emmeluth about twenty volumes of standard poets and juvenile books.

We have felt the need of books of reference and of wholesome attractive reading matter for the girls; now that the need is supplied some system will be established whereby it is hoped the girls may get food for profitable thought each day. In addition to our library we are grateful for many other generous gifts.

We appreciate the valuable assistance rendered us by the Cousins' Society in sending so many pupils and paying a large part of one teacher's salary. It is only through the generous aid from various societies and individuals that the school can be maintained.

We must not close without mentioning the faithful help we have had from Dr. Beckwith during the whole year, and from Mrs. McCully until she left the city and from Miss Carpenter since that time.

We feel that we have been highly favored in many ways during the past nine months and sure that the patrons of the school have treasures awaiting them them beyond.

HELEN A. PEPOON, Principal.

CHINESE MISSION SCHOOL.

We have felt deeply the absence of Mr. Damon, but as far as possible we have endeavored to carry out his plans.

The Chinese express themselves as pleased with the English department of the schools.

The boy's school is doing good work and is larger than ever before. There have been eighty-three boys in attendance during the year.

We have raised enough to purchase a new organ for our boys' school. Miss Ada Jones has kindly given instruction in singing. The boys have become much interested in the drawing lessons given by Mr. Dodge.

Mrs. Chang Kim has been with us the greater part of the year and has done good work.

Miss Waterhouse has very efficiently taken charge of the Primary department.

The girls' school has been smaller this year than at any time during four years. There have been thirty-nine girls in scool this year. There are now twenty girls in school.

The home visiting and teaching of girls with bound feet has been sadly neglected this year owing to the increase of school-room duties. This accounts for the small number of girls in the school.

It requires much coaxing and many visits in the homes to keep hold of the girls.

The Sunday School continues about the same. An average attendance of forty-one children. Most of these children attend the Church service. The teachers in the day school also help in the Sunday School. In addition to these Mrs. A. L. Smith, Miss Carrie Green and Mr. Hughes have kindly helped us in our Sunday School.

MAY GREEN, Principal.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE OF MANAGEMENT OF THE GIRLS' INDUSTRIAL HOME.

In the experiment of establishing an industrial institution for girls, your committee have been fortunate in securing at the outset the services of Mrs. Stratford as matron, and Miss Benner as teacher of sewing and dress-making. Whatever of success the enterprise has reached is due, outside of the generous pecuniary assistance, mainly to the devotion and faithfulness of these two women. We also gratefully recognize the important assistance afforded by Miss Flaxmann, who, for several months, was employed to help in the sewing department, but who, at other times when not employed by your committee, has freely given her time and services in promoting the enterprise.

With the somewhat narrow quarters which have been at our disposal limiting the number of pupils to ten or eleven, it has been inevitable that the average expense for each pupil has been large, for with the same teaching force and the same expenses in the way of rent and water rates and a few other items, the expense per individual for three or four times as many inmates would, of course, be substantially reduced. These expenses—that is, the cost of keeping each girl, including rent, water rates, instruction and control, and food, comes to about $19 a month, or $4.38 a week. This is too large, and can, under more favorable circumstances, be diminished.

There has been a large outlay which is not chargeable to running expenses, but has been made on account of necessary repairs and additions in the way of permanent improvements which, unfortunately, we cannot reap the full benefit of without remaining for years in the occupation of the premises, but as the buildings are unsuitable in many ways for such an enterprise, and offer no room for enlarging the accommodations except by new buildings, this seems undesirable. This outlay, or much of it, is necessarily incidental to the inception of a scheme of this character, and may perhaps be properly chargeable to experience account.

As to the questions of a demand for such an institution as the Industrial Home, and of the success of this experiment, we report the following facts. Our available accommodation has been filled, in spite of the exercise of considerable care in the acceptance of candidates for admission, and of the dismissal of several pupils. There are several candidates for admission now awaiting a chance to enter the Home, but for whom we have no room. The girls have made varying progress in sewing, a large proportion of them being now in demand for sewing in families at wages of one dollar a day. The girls have done all the work pertaining to housekeeping, and have made progress in cookery, although advance in that direction has been much hampered by narrow and unsuitable kitchen quarters, and have made their own clothes. They are industrious and happy, and have shown themselves worthy of the social freedom which they have enjoyed and which has appeared to react favorably upon their characters and mainers. They average good wages, out of which they pay their board, purchase material from which to make their clothes, give for benevolent purposes and make deposits in the savings bank. They have been in good health—medical attendance not figuring among the expenses.

With suitable quarters, it would be desirable and practicable to pay more attention to instruction in cookery, to do all the washing of the institution, and to have instruction given in nursing the sick. Lessons in embroidery might perhaps be added with ad-

We feel strongly that if the H. M. C. Society consider it worth while to continue the enterprise, it will be necessary to find more commodious quarters in the very near future, both on the score of expense and for the sake of supplying the demand which certainly exists and seems likely to grow, for the advantages afforded by the Home. With this in view, we have obtained an offer of the Chamberlain Homestead at Kawaiahao. These premises will be available next December, when the present lease expires. The owners will put them in good repair and give us a five years' lease, or a one year's lease with the privilege of another, continuing the privilege up to five years, at $420 a year and water rates, which is $60 a year less than the rent we are paying now. If this offer should be accepted, a large sum would have to be expended in fitting the building for the purposes of the Home, say $1,000. Such additions as partitioning off the attic into sleeping rooms, and perhaps putting partitions elsewhere for the same purpose, fitting up some room as a laundry, fitting up an ironing place in the cellar, would be some of the requirements.

This building would accommodate twenty-one girls, double the capacity of our present quarters, and, with the addition of the stone wing of the house of Mrs. Cooke, which joins the Chamberlain house, if it could be obtained, this number could be increased to twenty-three.

The Chamberlain homestead has large front and back yards entirely shut off from each other, and a large and convenient kitchen.

With the showing of the first nine months of this experiment, your committee are unanimous in recommending a continuance of the Home with the understanding that larger quarters shall be procured as soon as possible.

Ån institution of this kind is the natural sequel of the work done by the girls' seminaries of the country, unless we are satisfied to drop all special effort for them outside of church and Sunday-school influences the moment they finish their courses of study at school. The social conditions at these islands, the crowding temptations which beset these young women the moment they leave the sheltering roofs of their school homes, temptations stronger and more numerous because of the refinements and accomplishments and intelligence which they have acquired from school life, all forbid us to consider our work for them completed at that stage.

It is much to afford those girls who desire it a home with its protection, its duties, its vantage ground from which to find their places in society; it is much to afford them opportunities of acquiring skill in the different lines of woman's work which are in demand, for with the power of winning a competence by honorable industry and enterprise, one great condition of temptation is destroyed.

The training, moreover, which such an institution affords tends toward good housekeeping and an intelligent care of the health, and so not only to improve the matrimonial prospects of those receiving its benefits, but also to prepare them for wifehood and motherhood.

This work of industrial training is not accomplished or contemplated by any other institution in the country, except so far as the girls' seminaries require practice in sewing and housekeeping during the progress of the course of study.

Hawaiian parents are waking up to its importance and its promise, and are eagerly enquiring about it and seeking its advantages for their daughters.

It is with sincere regret that we have to report that the resignations of Mrs. Stratford and Miss Benner have been tendered to take effect at the end of the first year of the Home, and have been accepted by us.

The proposition has been made to Miss Carpenter to take the position of matron, in case the Society decides to continue the Home, and she appears favorable, without, however, committing herself. We are corresponding with the view of procuring a sewing teacher.

Heretofore the salary of the matron has been $400 a year, and that of the sewing teacher $600. We recommend that, if the work is continued, the salary of the matron be raised to $600.

It will be seen by examining the Treasurer's report, that feeding the household has amounted to $403.84 without including cost of fuel; this is at the rate of 44.87 a month or about 10.35 a week, which comes to about 1.15 for each girl per week, charging them with the cost of the food consumed by the teachers.

If we examine the actual running expenses of the institution without including interest on expenditures in the nature of permanent improvements, we find that it has cost during the nine months, for rent, salaries, food, supplies for dress-making, water rates, telephone, fuel and incidentals, $1,896.50 or 210.72 a month or 48.62 a week, which amounts to about 5.40 a week for each of the girls, charging them with the whole of the cost.

The girls have received $1,002, out of which they have paid for board 420, or 42 per cent. of their earnings, leaving them 582 for their own. If the rate of board had been one-third greater, or two dollars a week, they would have paid in 560, and had left 442. Or if it had been two-thirds more, or 2.50 a week, they would have paid in 700, and retained 302 for themselves.

ADDRESS OF THE RETIRING PRESIDENT DR. G. P. ANDREWS.

THEME: EDUCATIONAL.

Theoretically the object in educating children is to train their faculties to the highest development, in order that their intellectual power may be enhanced by the variety of resources at command. Practically the child is educated that its capacity for breadwinning may be increased. Up to a certain point these two objects in education are in harmony, but then they diverge, or rather the theoretical scheme involves a far wider range in the training of the scholar, and aims at so expanding the intellect that it shall have control of the widest field in its progress upward, irrespective of the value of its acquisitions in the work of making a living. A rational scheme of education aims to so equip the scholar that he shall have the capacity to appreciate purely intellectual pursuits and at the same time be fitted for business success.

With this object the tendency of the time is to specialize the higher education and to give to each individual the line of training likely to be most useful. The day has passed when even a Humboldt can compass the details of all knowledge. Now, we are entering a period when the exigencies of life are so great that the demand is becoming loud for a shorter time for preparing the child to be a man; that the youth may be ready earlier for business, and that in spite of the necessity for a better training and more thorough culture, to meet the advance in all branches of knowledge. I wish to enter a protest against this murder of the innocents by the Moloch of business.

I take as a standpoint the view of the physiologist, understanding the conditions of development in child-hood and youth, the period when the foundations of education must be laid. During the latter part of the period of growth the intellectual facilities increase in power in almost geometric ratio. The infant for several months presents only rudimentary senses, with scarcely the suggestion of intellect, for many months more. When the lambkin or little chick has learned to shift for itself, and is to all intents adult, the human infant has not even learned to know its mother, and by the time the baby speaks its first word, the chick is a mother with a brood of her own. But speech is only the first step upwards for the child; the first months were devoted to the perfecting of the organic machinery which for the rest of life is to make or mar the symmetry of an immortal soul, with all its possibilities; for so far as we know, the man - soul and all, is molded by his bodily individuality. So it becomes us to pay due respect to the needs of this "material enswathement," as Joseph Cook calls it. The science of education has advanced hand in hand with other sciences. until now its fabric has become very elaborate and complete, but it remains to be proved whether it is truly scientific. More than in any other branch of knowledge, perhaps, education involves the element of the "personal aquatio," as the astronomers term it, viz., the peculiarities of the individual as affecting his capacity for acquiring knowledge. The public educator of necessity deals with large numbers, and his methods must de adapted to the multitude, and yet a wise instructor, in view of this individualism in talent, studies the character of his pupils, and bends the rules to the case. I am happy to find that such painstaking is the rule with some of our own instructors, and is considered by them a most important part of their duty.

I believe that a tendency of the time that is pernicious is to crowd too much into the tender years. The popular kindergarten system, admirable as its methods are when properly limited, is liable to be perverted and become an evil. It makes play of work, that is, it makes work a pleasure, and in the excitement of the pleasure the strain upon the nervous system is overlooked. True play exercises the muscular system chiefly, and the brain only incidentally and briefly. The Creator has implanted in the healthy immature human animal the love of activity, that the body may be developed first; and the dislike of continuous mental effort is the natural object of the imperfect brain cells to do that which they are not yet fitted for; it is the brake which Nature applies to make children go slow; the exceptions in children who are precocious as to mental activity prove the rule, and they rarely in mature years are the equals of those who came to understanding later. Kindergarten work all tends to excite the brain cells to activity, which means an increase of the blood supply, and so unnatural growth; the very variety itself is stimulating, and the pleased little one goes form one happiness to another, never long enough to become tired; but every one of the exercises appeals to its intelligence and taxes its understanding far more than simple play. In proof of this, it is very common to find nervous, active children actually exhausted by the course, so that after a few weeks or months it is necessary to take them out of school. Moreover, this plan tends to foster the desire for change, and an intollerance of persistent application. This may not appear in the Kindergarten room; but later, careful mothers who have brought up children both with and without Kindergarten training have assured me that the former method did not prepare the children as well for later work as a less stimulating method. The fault lies in the length of the session and the class of children in question. Undoubtedly, children belonging to the uneducated classes are, as a rule, much less susceptible to this kind of stimulation than those who have from infancy been surrounded by an atmosphere of culture, and who are constantly under a kind of Kin.

dergarten influence at home. For such children the hours should be the briefest, one-half to one hour at most. For the street urchin it is by far the best place possible, and for as long a time as may be, for his home life will certainly counteract any danger of over stimulation.

From the age of seven to twelve appears to be a period of less danger from overwork, partly because the period of most active development has passed, and the natural dislike to study is strong, and the changes which usher in adult life have not fairly begun, and also the studies allotted to this age seem to be better adapted to the powers of the pupils. But from age of thirteen on to eighteen comes a time of special danger, when many a promising youth of both sexes is permanently crippled. Girls suffer more often than boys, since, out of school, their lives are less active and their physical development is under less favorable surroundings. It is during these years that to most children, who have any mental activity, comes the awakening to the apprehension of what study means, and the thirst for knowledge is felt, and then, too, is the pressure put on by parents and teachers to hurry the child forward as rapidly as possible to the close of the school period, that the business of life may begin. The child's own ambition, too, is engaged, not to be distanced by its fellows.

With the desire for knowledge, there is often a lack of ability to concentrate thought, and in the effort to fix attention and master the task for longer hours than the strength is equal to, signs of overstrain appear. The eyes ache with slight use, dull headache is common, appetite becomes capricious and the child has a bilious attack, stays out of school for a few days, rests and begins again, fresh; to have the symptoms repeated with variations until the long vacation brings continued rest. Or the signs of overstrain may be limited to sensitiveness of the eyes and occasional headaches. The occulist is consulted; he finds "astigmatism," which signifies that the eyes are not quite symmetrical, and require a constant muscular effort to accommodate them to each other, with the accompanying headache as a danger signal. Glasses are prescribed and rest; with relief, but, if the overstrain had not been there, the astigmatism would not have appeared. Or the remonstrance of nature may be in some other function which should carry the same lesson—relief from some of the work.

This of course means shorter daily hours of study and a longer course. It is constantly asserted that the most successful students and literary men find six hours a day of work as much as can profitably be indulged in, and this by trained workers, in the maturity of their powers. Our children of tender years, and imperfectly developed brains, are expected to do within one or two hours of this period, for all their student years; is it strange that so many of our boys and girls, when they come to Yale or Harvard, Vassar or Wellesley, fall by the way, or graduate crippled, because when young they were handicapped by too heavy weight? We do not serve our domestic animals so; they run wild and free until they have reached adult years, and the tender growing muscles are spared severe labor.

I am aware of the difficulty involved in this problem. The popular idea that children should not waste their precious time in play is a relic of the monkish and puritan days when the body was considered a thing to be mortified and kept down. It is coming to be looked upon as next to the mind, the most marvelous work of the Creator, a fit temple for the Holy Ghost, and the image of God which dwells in each human form, is charged with doing some worthy work in regenerating this world. Hence how important that the physical manifestation of this soul should be in perfect health for the work of the Master. How many an one in the heat of the day has mourned his or her imperfect work, from an imperfect body dating from the school or college days.

A most important move in the right direction is in mingling physical labor with mental effort, and this innovation should include girls as well as boys and mechanics or housekeeping cares should take the place of some of the hours of study, and not be added to them. The results of mechanical training will be of eminent practical value in forming the hands to skilled use of their muscles. This training, even if never needed in practical life, is no insignificant element in rounding out the general education, just as many studies that are not directly useful in life are most valuable in training the mental faculties to skilled labor.

These remarks apply to modern education in civilized countries generally, and I believe are based on sound physiology. They apply here with special force, as the climate is unsuited to severe exertion, and what would be admissible in a more bracing region would be a mistake here. I know that many careful thinkers are in sympathy with this line of argument, and if I have in any degree stimulated thought or awakened interest in the subject, I shall feel that your time has not been taken in vain.
